

CAMPUS NOTES

Miss Jean E. Taylor, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Tessie Taylor, the last week, returned to Kennett, Mo., yesterday where she is teaching English in the high school. Miss Taylor was graduated from the University in 1907.

Carl D. Green, a student in the School of Engineering, who has been ill since the Easter holidays, left the hospital Saturday night.

Miss Mildred Beane, a student in the University, visited her parents in Chillicothe during the week-end.

Seventeen Campfire girls went on a hike Saturday morning. They left Read Hall at 6:30 o'clock and ate breakfast near Balanced Rock.

Mrs. Henry Price of Read Hall is visiting in St. Joseph. She will remain there about a week.

Miss Pansy Walton of Armstrong visited her sister, Miss Naomi Walton, at Read Hall yesterday.

The rehearsal of the Choral Society had been postponed until after the special mass meeting that will be held in the University Auditorium tonight.

A picnic breakfast was given at Balanced Rock by the Chi Omega sorority Sunday morning.

Reinhardt Egger led the Senior Christian Endeavor Society of the Christian Church last night on "Using the Lord's Day for the Highest Things."

ENGINEERS PROTECT CAMPUS

They Lie in Wait With Paddles for Those Who Walk on Grass.

Watchful waiting. That is what the engineers are doing these spring days. Lying on the mounds, with paddles concealed, they await the passing student who cannot keep to the cinder and concrete walks, but cuts across the grass. The offenders must run the gantlet. Seniors and freshmen are treated alike.

D. A. R. CONGRESS IN SESSION

Mrs. G. B. Macfarlane Is Social Delegate—Wilson May Speak.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Continental Hall, the palatial colonial home in Potomac Park of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was the scene of the opening of the annual Congress of the organization today. Thousands of "Daughters" from all parts of the union were present when Mrs. William Cumming Story of New York, president-general, tapped the opening gavel.

President Wilson will address the Congress if possible. The vast auditorium was a bower of fluttering flags and pennants. The delegates, bedecked with brilliant sashes and a bower of spring millinery, added to the colonial scene. Pretty girls in white were the pages.

Perfunctory business comprised today's program. A credentials committee was appointed and the real business will begin tomorrow. Addresses from prominent officials will be heard tonight and President-General Story will give a reception for the delegates.

The principal business before the Daughters was election of officers. Only two candidates, Mrs. Story and Mrs. George Thatcher Guernsey, state regent of Kansas, were in the field, with reelection of Mrs. Story generally predicted.

Mrs. G. B. Macfarlane, a former Columbia resident now living in St. Louis, is a delegate to the congress in Washington from Columbia. Mrs. Macfarlane was formerly state regent.

Yale Fellowship for Carl H. Greene.

Carl H. Greene, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Greene, has been awarded a Currier fellowship at Yale. Mr. Greene will work for his Ph. D. under Dr. Lafayette B. Mendel and Dr. Russell H. Chittenden, director of the Sheffield Scientific School. Mr. Greene also has a position for the coming summer in the Mayo Hospital at Rochester, Minn. He held the same position last summer.

New Teachers' Bulletin Issued.

H. O. Severance, University Librarian, has received the first issue of the bulletin of the Missouri State Teachers' Association, the new quarterly to be published by the association. It contains matter of interest to the teaching profession.

CLASS DOES WORK ON REPUBLIC

Journalists, Inspecting St. Louis Offices, Write and Edit News.

The senior Journalists are back from their inspection of the printing establishments of St. Louis.

They made their headquarters at the Marquette Hotel. The Republic and the Globe-Democrat were visited Friday night. The students were given a double column of space in the Republic to fill with news. This was taken over the telephone. A picture of Miss Rosalie Tumlalty was taken and she wrote her first impressions of the newspaper.

Saturday morning the Western Newspaper Union showed the journalists how news is collected and parts of the country papers printed in St. Louis. Democratic and Republican papers were being turned out in a cold business-like form.

The Heinicke-Fiegl Lithographing Company was visited. Here the offset press was seen, completing the work begun on lithographic stone. The stone is imported from Germany. Theodore Heinicke, president of the company, invited the class and instructors to take luncheon with him.

In the afternoon the Post-Dispatch the Times and the Star were visited and their methods of getting and handling news, and the mechanical sides, were observed. The United Press offices were visited to see where the Missouriian dispatches are written. In the American Typefounders' Company the various accessories to a printing plant were studied. Then several of the class and instructors went to police headquarters and were shown around by T. J. Masterson of the Republic. They visited the Bertillon room and the work there was demonstrated to them.

At 8:30 a number heard Frank Stockdale's advertising lecture on "Advertising and the Speed of Turnover" at the Army and Navy Club. After this all attended an entertainment at the University Club. Old college songs were sung and played and the journalists were told how things were formerly done here.

Those who made the trip were Miss Rosalie Tumlalty, who lives in St. Louis; Daniel D. Rosenfelder, Columbia; Raymond Brandt, Sedalia; H. A. Delashmutt, LaPlata; C. E. Kane, Maryville; T. S. Hudson and F. F. Catron, Kansas City; Fred Keller, Jonesboro, Ark.; Earl Christmas, Pond Creek, Ok.; J. S. Ankeney, professor of art; J. B. Powell, instructor in advertising; H. W. Smith, instructor in illustration, and Mrs. Smith, and Prof. and Mrs. Charles G. Ross, who chaperoned the party.

All except Miss Tumlalty returned this morning at 7 o'clock.

Manager of News Agency Shoots Self.

LONDON, April 19.—Baron Auguste De Reuter, managing director of the Reuter Telegram Company news agency, committed suicide today by shooting himself as the result of grief over the death of his wife.

Stephens Concert Postponed.

Illness has caused a postponement of the program of pianoforte compositions to have been given tomorrow night by Miss Gladys DeHoney in the Auditorium of Stephens College. The program will be given one week later, at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening, April 27, at Stephens College.
